Tuesday morning, with Judge Silas A. Robinson on the bench, the October term of the superior court for Windham county will open in this city. This was Judge Bennett's first appearance on the bench in this city, he having been appointed to the bench by the late Gov. George L. Lilley.

At 10 o'clock the drawing of the jury took place and these names were drawn: Windham, Edward B. Latham, Edward S. Billings; Putnam, George W. Porter, Walter S. Carpenter; Ashford, Wallace M. Durkee; Brooklyn, James Lowry; Canterbury, Daniel C. Condon; Chapin, George T. Crane;

State's Attorney Searls told the court that he had about a dozen criminal cases for Tuesday but could not say how long a time they would consume. They might be disposed of readily but there might be a number of trials of some length. One of the principal cases is that of the state vs. Alice Skinner, recently bound over from Hampton, charged with burglary and attempted arson. Most of the other cases are minor ones.

The court decided to assign civil jury cases for Wednesday and if there is much criminal work the civil cases can be taken up in order after all the criminal business has been finished up.

Assignments Made.

These assignments were made on the civil jury list: Nov. Caron vs. Edwin B. Latham and Charles L. Crane (firm of Latham & Crane), first case Wednesday; Betsey A. Wilcox vs. E. A. Card, second case Wednesday; Clark G. Lawton vs. Frank A. Herrick, first case Thursday.

Ellis F. Chase et al. vs. Attorney General, appeal from probate. Attorney Torrey of Putnam for the appellant stated that the case might be tried in Putnam if the jury went there. Attorney Harry E. Back of Danvers, for the appellee, stated that he agreed with the attorney for the appellant except that if the jury did not go to Putnam he wanted the case tried in Willimantic this term. It was decided to let the matter stand for the present.

The second attempt to get a case tried in Putnam at this term, notwithstanding the fact that the attorneys of that city have just had a term in that place, was stopped by Attorney Don E. Perkins of Norwich. It was in the case of Clark G. Lawton vs. Frank A. Herrick, Attorney Beck for plaintiff, desired to try the case in Putnam, but Attorney Perkins said that he wanted the case tried here, so Judge Bennett assigned it for the first case on Thursday.

Short Calendar Session.

At the short calendar session notice was given that pleadings had been filed by the defendant in the case of Cleophea Bernard et al. vs. Levever P. Weeks. One week was given the defendant in the case of E. A. L. G. Williams vs. E. A. L. G. Williams in which to answer the plaintiff's pleadings. Four weeks was agreed upon for an answer to the pleadings of the appellant in the case of Abby A. Abbe et al. appeal from probate.

There was no more business and adjournment was taken until Tuesday morning.

THE GRAND TRUNK RUMOR

Not Likely to Materialize Without a Long Fight.

There has been a deal of newspaper talk during the last few days relative to the Grand Trunk railway securing an option on the Providence & Danialson line, but as far as Danialson is concerned, the greatest interest in the prospective change in the control of the road is in the possibility of Danialson securing a railroad junction at the crossing of the Grand Trunk and the right to build from the Connecticut line to some point on the Central Vermont road.

To be of any value to the Grand Trunk as a line from tidewater at Providence to their controlled route, the Providence & Danialson must be extended through Connecticut from the state line at East Killingly to the point on the Central Vermont road. An application to the legislature of this state for such a franchise as would be required and must be secured before such an extension can be made would undoubtedly meet with strong opposition. As the P. & D. is homed in today by competing interests both at its Connecticut and Rhode Island terminals, it is of no value as a feeder to the Grand Trunk's lines. Favorable action in the legislature of two states is essential to the securing of the Grand Trunk a tidewater terminal in Rhode Island and the right to build from the Connecticut line to some point on the Central Vermont road.

The road has been kept muzzled and there is no reason to hope that its passing into the control of the Grand Trunk will open the door to this respect. If the Grand Trunk ever gets a franchise to extend the line from Killingly to Windham it will probably be only after the best of a long fight in the legislature of the state. Meanwhile, Danialson people may contemplate the securing of a franchise to this town if the mighty should be beaten and the road built through. The prospect is attractive, but even the most optimistic do not feel that it is yet time to invest in real estate along the right of way. Danialson has had a previous experience in waiting for the building of a franchise to Willimantic line. For twenty years they dreamed of this

JEWETT CITY

Fortnightly's Opening Meeting—Death of James A. Bicknell—General Interests.

The Fortnightly club held its first meeting on Friday afternoon, Nov. 12, at 8 o'clock. The time was passed in fancy work and social chat. The hostess served refreshments.

OBITUARY.

James A. Bicknell.

The death of James Arnold Bicknell occurred on Friday afternoon, Nov. 12, at 8 o'clock. He was a member of the Baptist church, uniting on East Sunday, 1895, and as long as his health permitted was an active member of the church. He was a member of the Christian Endeavor society and at the time of his death was a member of the board of directors of the school. He was a member of the board of directors of the school. He was a member of the board of directors of the school.

SEPTEMBER MORTALITY.

Abstracts of mortality reports in the health bulletin issued by the state board of health give Putnam a death rate of 13.3 per thousand during September. The total number of deaths was nine and of these three were of persons one year of age or under five years of age. The percentage of deaths under five years to the total mortality was 33.3. The leading cause of death, diarrhoea, caused six deaths and all other diseases six deaths.

The death rate for the state during September was 14.3, for the large towns; for the small towns, 13.7; for the state, 14.3.

County Home Meeting.

The annual meeting of the board of county home officers was held at the home of Mrs. E. A. L. G. Williams on Friday afternoon.

No Trade School for Putnam.

Putnam will not get one of the two trade schools to be established by the state. This announcement is a disappointment not only to Putnam people but to those of other towns in the county.

There is possibility however, that more trade schools will be authorized by the next legislature and in that case Putnam will have a chance of getting one of the schools.

Two carloads of race horses that have been at the Woonsocket tracks and are now being shipped to Putnam will be held next Thursday at the home.

Rev. F. D. Sergeant and Chester E. Child attended the annual meeting of the Congregational Brotherhood and A. B. C. F. M., in Minneapolis this week.

To Invite State Congregational Churches.

The state association of Congregational churches will hold its annual meeting at Putnam on Friday, Oct. 22, at 10 o'clock. The invitation is accepted it will be the first meeting ever held by the association in this city.

Only $1,000 Needed.

It is understood that only one thousand dollars is needed to increase the fund for an addition to the Day-Kimball hospital to $7,000, an amount which would enable the hospital to be secured from the state if a similar sum is raised. It is hoped to secure this last thousand dollars in order that the new hospital could be started as soon as possible.

TWENTY-ONE SALOONS.

Can Be No New Ones Under the Law.

The liquor dealers of this city are filing their applications for renewal of their licenses with the town clerk. There are 21 licenses granted in Putnam last year and the property owners will likely ask for renewals. There will not, however, be an increase over the present number of saloons.

A new excise law provides that in any town in which on October 1, 1909, the number of licenses was in excess of the ratio of one license to each five hundred inhabitants of the town, renewals may be made to the holders of such licenses, but no new licenses shall be issued. The law is a reason of failure to renew or revocation of such licenses already granted, the total shall be reduced so that the ratio of one license to each five hundred inhabitants of the town shall be maintained. As that ratio is now exceeded in Putnam there will be no new licenses.

Rumor of Independent Ticket.

It was rumored Friday that there will be an independent ticket in the field at the coming city election. Just what the reasons are for this third ticket
